FLOWER'S CHOICE APPROVED

MUT SHEPARD AND RETNOLDS NOT

They Won't Dreide Until They Have Seen Each Other-Prosecuting Committee Hold a Secret Session-To Meet Again To-day, District Attorney James W. Ridgway of Kings county said yesterday that there was so much red tape about the appointment of special Assistant District Attorneys, and he and his staff of assistants were so busy with other official duties which demanded immediate attention that he was unable to prepare the papers appointing Mr. Edward M. Shepard and ex-Judge eorge G. Reynolds to prosecute John Y. Mc-Kane, the Gravesend statesman, in time to mail them yesterday. They were all prepared. however, before the office was closed last night, and they will be mailed this morning.

E. M. BHEPARD.

It is still uncertain whether either of the men suggested by the Governor will consent to serve. Mr. Shepard said again yesterday that his private business demanded his whole attention for three months to come, and he did not see how he could leave it. Ex-Judge Reynolds said:

"I cannot say now whether I will or will not accept it. I can hardly see my way clear to accept: however, I may be able to take up the work. I hope to see Mr. Shepard to-day or tomorrow, and I shall not decide until I see him. Mr. Shepard is a very able man, and I sincerely hope he will accept."

Supreme Court Justice-elect William J. Gaynor is not altogether satisfied with Gov. Flower's promptness in acting on his suggestion and that of District Attorney Ridgway to an point special District Attorneys to try the cases of alleged fraud. He said yesterday:

I thank the Governor for acting so promptly; at the same time I beg to say that it was due to the people here that he make no appointments without consulting them. In my judgment the Governor should have allowed the counsel to be selected here. The appoint-ment of Mr. Shepard is most excellent, however. The appointment of Mr. Reynolds is equally excellent, but Judgo Reynolds himself recog-nizes that his great age precludes the possibi-ity of his doing the active work necessary in the preparation of the case. People must bear in mind that the trial of a case in court is the least part of it. The great part is in the proparation. The genius off preparation is the greatest genius in the world. The great work in the prosecution will be to collect and to collate the evidence to present it properly to collate the evidence, to present it properly to the Grand Jury, and to draw indictments which will stick when the case comes to court. It is easy to go into court, but it is not easy to acquit yourself well when you get there. The best case, put on its feet poorly, will fall before it runs a mile." Even though the Governor did not consult the people who are after John Y. McKane be-fore he recommended his prosecutors, they all recognize the merits of the men he recom-mended.

ended. The Citizen Committee of Twenty-five, which The Citizen Committee of Twenty-five, which was appointed at the meeting in the Academy of Music Monday night, not yesterday afternoon in the room of the Committee of One Hundred, in the Germania building, and after Colonel of Provisional Regiments Bacon had announced with emphisistinatho'd "clean everybody out of the room but the committee, and put a guard at the door," the committee went into session. They remained in session an hour. Then Secretary Barnes said that Mr. James McMahon, the Presidentof the Emigrant Savings Bank, had been made Chairman, and that Gen. Christiansen had been made Treasurer.

that Gen. Christiansen had been made Treasurer.

The General had not been named in the committee, and so his name and that of Provisional Colone Bacon and Mr. James McKeen were added to the committee. It was also decided to appoint an executive committee of seven to do the secret part of the business hereafter, and the meetings of the full committee will probably be open. In explanation of the star chamber proceedings yesterday one of the committee said:

"Well, when you go to put a man in jail you don't want to let him know, do you? Well, isn't that reason enough?"

Mr. Shepard was at the meeting. He said as he went out that he intended to visit ex-Judge Reynolds this morning, and then he would be ready to say whether he would accept the job of prosecuter. The committee will meet again ready to say whether he would accept the job of prosecuter. The committee will meet again this atternoon at 5 o'clock, and then the Executive Committee will be appointed.

District Attorney Ridgway declined yesterday to say anything about the letter former Grand Juryman R. F. Adams sent to Goy. Flower Tuesday. Mr. Adams in his letter insinuated things about the District Attorney and expressed a wish to divulge the secrets of the Grand Jury, of which he was a member. He wanted the Governor to punish Mr. Ridgway. The Governor sent the following reply to the letter:

TO INVESTIGATE THOROUGHLY.

All the Wicked Republicans Will Sprely b

The district leaders of the Republican organ ization met in Grand Opera House Hall last night, and, after a discussion of the accusations which have been made against some of them of treachery to the party and party candidates, determined that something must be

There must be an investigation, and the guilty must be disciplined. Specific charges must be invited, and, above all, a good committee must be chosen to try the case. A resolution providing for such an investigation was unanimously adopted. This resolution will be recommended for adoption to the County Committee at its meeting to-night The committee is composed of Elihu Root. Cornellus N. Bliss, Gen. Horace Porter, Col. S. V. R. Cruger, and Daniel G. Rollins.

It was suggested last night that this selection of the jury by the indicted leaders is reminiscent of the gentleman who, having his choice of a tree on which to be hanged, selected a gooseberry bush for the gallows, and that with a jury of their own selection it matters little what evidence may be presented.

"Here's a chance for those fellows to work." said a well-known Republican. "I wonder how many of them will be willing to accept appointment on the committee and do something for their party?"

It was a serious-faced lot of leaders. They did not seem to have derived any comiert as Clerk.

from the Republican victory of last week, and acted as if they thought only of the strictures which have been placed on their management. The seven who, are under particular suspicion of treachery were specially hiter in denouncing the criticisms as cruel in the extreme, but all seemed eager for an investigation. Jake Patterson made a speech of this sort, and his fellow members sat as solemn as owls. Even the Wicked Gibbe did not smile. George Hilliard of the Sixth district told how easy it is for somereforming Republicans, who fail to register and lose their vote, to criticise the working members of the party who perform every duty of citizership. Incidentally he condemned the Republican newspanners which have been "bounding us." Mr. Hilliard said that every one of the 2.142 election district capitains in the city ought to be called on to explain the vote in his district. When the whole programme had been arranged "Shiner" Johnny Simpson of the Fifth district had a word to say. He had been accused frequently of leaking information regarding the proceedings of the Executive Committee and he moved that the members bind themselves to special secrecy regarding this particular meeting. The motion was agreed to.

bind themselves to special secrecy regarding this particular meeting. The motion was agreed to.

A big row is expected at the meeting of the County Committee to-night, and precautions have been taken to secure the attendance of only such persons as have a right to be present by issuing tickets to members. These tickets were distributed hast night. Kickers from almost every district are expected to have their say.

The accusations against the Republican district leaders this yearfare infinitely worse than those which were pressed against Mike Cregau in connection with the election of 1896 in the Gas House district in which a similar Union League Club committee found the veteran leaders who has no charges preferred against him. He paid the poll workers in his district out of his own pocket last week, and last night the Republican Association in the Fifteenth adopted resolutions heartly endorsing his leadership.

SHEEHAN WILL DO THE PRESIDING.

The Pro Tem, President Not Likely to Hold the Chair Often-Elijah R. Kennedy's Dinner. The Republicans at the Fifth Avenue Hotel continued yesterday to chatter over what they would do at Albany this winter. The only dark cloud on the horizon was the feeling that Gov. Flower and Lieut.-Gov. Sheehan were bad men to attempt to buildoze. Although Senator Charles T. Saxton of Wayne has been selected as the candidate of the Republicans to be President pro tem, of the Senate, it was understood that Lieut.-Gov. Sheehan would do all the presiding that was necessary. The Lieutenant-Governor has the privilege of presiding over the Senate or not, just as he

There has been a disposition ever since election day on the part of the Republican majority elected to the Senate to threaten Mr. Sheehan with all sorts of punishment. They have declared that he was altogether too strict a disciplinarian and that he ruled the Republican minority with a rod of iron. The Repub-licans, now that they are in the majority, have threatened to get square, until yestorday, when word came into New York that Mr. Saxton would have few and mighty infrequent opportunities to occupy the presiding officer's chair. Gov. Flower has also plenty of backtone, and the kepublicans may not be able to put him "in a hole" as easily as they now think.

it was said last night that none of the pres-think.

It was said last night that none of the present candidates for Clerk of the Assembly stands a ghost of a show of getting there. These candidates are: Ex-Assemblyman W. S. Young of Oyster Bay, ex-Assemblyman W. S. Stevens of Maione, Henry L. Stoddard, political correspondent of the Mail and Express, and Haines D. Cunningham, Albany correspondent of the Evening Fost. It is believed that the place will go to a dark horse.

Ex-Park Commissioner Elliah R. Kennedy was one of the Republican statesmen in Brookiyn greatly elated over the result of the recent election. He was especially gratified at the capture of eleven of the eighteen Assembly districts by the liepublicans. He has a warm personal interest in the candidacy of Mr. Maiby of St. Lawrence county for the Speakership, and he made up his mind to corral the entire Kings county delegation for him if possible. For the purpose of striking up an acquaintance between Mr. Maiby and the Kings county men he arranged a dinner in honor of the former and invited the latter to participate. The dinner was fixed for Tuesday night at the Montauk Club on the park slope, and the $5,000 chef was to make it as elaborate as possible, regardless of cost. Mr. Kennedy, it seems, reckoned without his guests, for Assemblyman-elect James Taylor alone responded at the last moment. Mr. Maiby telegraphed that he could not reach Brooklyn in time, but none of the other invited Assemblymen elect sentany explanation of their absence.

Visitors at the Montauk Club on Tuesday night were naturally surprised to see so many vacant seats around the banqueting board, which was graced by the presence of Messrs, Kennedy and Taylor alone, and the incident occasioned considerable gassip. It seems that Kings county has a candidate of its own for the Speakershire in the person of Mr. John H. Burtis got the Fifth district, and that Mr. Burtis got ahead of Mr. Kennedy in quietly securing the pladges of all the other local Assemblymen, with the exception of Mr. Taylor, at a social gathering at the Uni

REPUBLICAN HUDSON COUNTY.

Col John J. Toffey Once More Sheriff After the Lapse of P.freen Years, Col. John J. Toffey, the new Republican

Sheriff of Hudson county, N. J., took possession of his office yesterday morning. A political evelone, similar to that which struck the country a week ago Tuesday, landed Col. Toffey in the Sheriff's office fifteen years ago, and there has been no Republican Sheriff of the county since that time until now. A large number of Republicans who are out of office. but don't want anything, crowded around the number of Republicans who are out of office, but don't want anything, crowded around the Court House and gave the incoming Sheriff an enthusiastic greeting. The Wanser Club, named in honor of Mayor Wanser, sent up a big basket of chrysanthemums. Sheriff Toffey has appointed Frank Higgins, President of the club, a clerk in his office.

One of the new Sheriff's first official acts was to appoint E. W. Wooley, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, a special deputy sheriff. He next conferred special deputy sheriff for twenty-three years, and he desired to fill out a quarter of a century in that caracity.

About 10:30 o'clock a special delegation of about 300 citizens arrived from the northern end of the county, the Floventh district. They had with them a brass band and an immense floral horseshoe which needed a truck for its transportation. The procession went to Col. Toffer's house first, and the band had started in on a serenade when somebody informed the grand marshal. Carl Schindler, and his chief aid, William Hoffman, that the Sheriff was at the Court House. The serenade was abruptly stopped and the procession moved on to the Court House, where the Sheriff was serenaded without further interruption. He stood on the steps of the Court House while the band played. Mr. Hoffman, who was the crater of the serenading party, made a speech, and the Sheriff responded. ALBANY, Nov. 15 .- Mr. Addison B. Colvin, the State Treasurer-elect, was in the Secretary of State's office to-day in company with Secretary of State elect Palmer. Mr. Colvin, regarding appointments in his department, said: "I have not considered the question of appointments nor made any promises. I have not the least idea who I shall appoint as my deputy. I am a young man, with little experience in politics as regards the disposal of patronage, and in making my appointments I shall confer with older and more experienced party men, notably the Hon. J. V. Haker, our state Committeeman, whose withdrawal from the canvass for the Comptrollership nomination made my nomination possible.

Declares That the Aldermen Treated Hin Outrageously in Compelling Him to Sit with the Other Watchers While the Beturns of the Vote Were Convassed.

Ex-Assemblyman Alfred R. Conkling, special sounsel for the Republican party and watcher for Edward T. Bartlett, Republican candidate for Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals. marched into the Common Council chamber vesterday morning to attend the session of the Board of County Canvassers. He walked up to the dais where President McClellan's chair is and perched his derby hat jauntily over the marble ear of the bust of John Marshall, the first Chief Justice of the Suprem-Court of the United States, divested himself of his top coat, and was ready for business. President McClellan resented the desecration of Marshall's bust and removed the Republican watcher's headgear and placed it in a chair. Alderman Robert Muh of the Eighteenth Assembly district sat in that chair a minute later. Alderman Muh weighs 300 pounds, and when Mr. Conkling recovered his tile it bore a close resemblance to an overdone

This was not the only "outrage" which Mr. Conkling endured at the hands of the wicked Aldermen. He had taken possession of the Clerk's desk, and proposed to do his watching from there. Unfortunately, there was not room enough for him and the three officials who were obliged to sit there. He did not seem to appreciate the fact, and when a resolution was adopted that the front row of seats in the chamber be reserved for members of the press and the others for the accommodation of the watchers he made no move to take a watcher's chair. He even remained at the Clerk's desk after Alderman Brown had moved that the Sergeant-at-Arms remove all persons from the well of the house who had no right to be there and the motion had been adopted.

Three or four Aldermen arose threateningly to demand the clearing of the well, when Mr Conkling got up, and, approaching President McClellan, shook his finger under that gentle-to demand the clearing of the well, when Mr. Conkling got up, and, approaching President McClellan, shook his finger under that gentleman's nose and declared that Mr. McClellan amided and said:

"It will be just as well for us to be polite to each other, Mr. Co-kiing."

Mr. Conking declared that he would go to the courts and get a mandamus compeling his recognition. He was told that there was no decire to deprive him of any right, and that every necess to the returns would be given him, but he must take one of the seats assigned to watchers. This he did, and all returns were taken to him for his inspection.

It was decided that all notices of contest must be made in writing. They will be filed with the Committee on Contests, of which Alderman Wund is Chairman. Alderman lyder is the Chairman of the Committee on Corrected lictures.

There were several protests made and notices of contest given. The funniest of these was filed by Antonio C. Astarita, the Republican candidate for Civil Justice in the Second Judicial district, who alleged that gross frauds in the returns had been made by the election inspectors. Mr. Astarita says he polled many hundreds of Italian votes in the way of pasters on Democratic ballots and that all of these were counted as straight Democratic ballots. He was so many thousands in the minority that he cannot imagine that he would have been elected if all the votes he claims had been cast for him.

Samuel Gompers, defeated candidate for delegate to the Constitutional Convention, filed a protest argainst the canvass and notice of contest. His claim is that many Democratic ballots, and that his name, which was one on many different that so many different Samuel Gompers got the agreement of these otoes he would be elected. He filed as score of more of affidavits in support of his claim. One of these is made by Joseph Barondess, who was a watcher for Compers, and who swears that the police would retell him watch the count.

Trotests were made against the election of Patrick J. Kerrigan by Edward When the returns from the Ninth and Twen-tieth election districts of the Tenth Assembly district were reached yesterday. Mr. Conkling presented protests against canvassing the re-turns, which he said were false and fraudulent. This he proposes to establish by adidavits. The canvass of the returns for the First and becond Assembly districts was completed.

More certificates of election expenses were filed by candidates in the County Clerk's office yesterday. Here are some of the statements: J. H. V. Arnold, candidate for Surrogate, $5,000 to inclined Croker for printing and distribution of cir-Richard Croser for printing and distribution of cir-miars, and $50, for incidentials.

Not Required to File Oaths of Office. ALBANY, Nov. 15.-The Secretary of State has already received a number of eaths of office from the delegates elected to sit in the Constitutional Convention next summer. This filing of oaths is unnecessary. The law which required that all State officers must fig their oath of office within ten days after election was repealed last winter. Moreover, all are to be sworn in, just as Senators and Assembly-men are—at the opening of the Convention by the Secretary of State. JAFFRAY-JAFFRAY.

A Brilliant Assemblage at the Marriage of Miss Mand Jaffray.

One of the most notable social events of the season occurred in the Church of the Transfiguration, on East Twenty-ninth street, near Fifth avenue at noon vesterday, in the presence of a distinguished gathering. It was the wedding of Miss Maud Jaffray, eldest daughter of the late William P. Jaffray and granddaughter of the late Edward S. Jaffray, and Capt. Edward W. Jaffray of the Thirteenth Hussars, a crack English regiment and a second cousin of the bride. Several hundred invitations to the ceremony had been sent out and nearly every one who received one responded in person either at the church or at the reception and wedding breakfast which followed at the home of the bride's mother, 43 West Nineteenth street, Great preparations had been made for the event, both at the church, which was exquisitely decorated with chrysanthemums, pink and white being the predominating colors, and at the home of the bride's mother, where the same effective flowers were used to dress the rooms and hallway.

Long before the arrival of the wedding party

From Dover to Newark and Back Free. One of the big bazaars in Newark advertised last week to pay the fares of everybody who risited the city from Dover or its environs yesvisited the city from Dover or its environs yesterday. An excursion ticket between Dover and Newark costs $1,500, and the firm handed out that amount to each of nearly 5,000 persons who showed their return coupons at the cashier's desk. Nearly everybody who visited the place bought something as a matter of course, but the net profit could not have covered the outlay. The advertisement was great, however, and the profestors of the scheme are going to try it again in other directions.

Curlous Points About the Beath of Young

Edward C. Waterlow. Edward C. Waterlow, 30 years old, a son of James R. Waterlow, a well-known up-town real estate dealer of 315 West Eighty-seventh street, died suddenly in Tom Lane's saloon, 38 West Thirtieth street, yesterday morning. Although it is probable that the young man died from beart disease, there are some circumstances connected with the case which may need clearing up. Friends of the dond man say that Waterlow, who was in the real estate business with his father, generally had large sum of money upon his person. When he body was taken in charge by the police of the West Thirtieth street station yesterday morning there was not a cent in any of the pockets. A valuable gold watch was also

Shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday morning the occupants of Lane's saloon, which is just opposite the stage entrance of Palmer's The atre in West Thirtieth street, saw a wellatre in West Thirtieth street, saw a well-dressed young man walk feebly down the steps and push open the door which leads into the saloon. Before the newcomer had taken half a dozen steps in the direction of the bar he staggered, and but for the assistance of several men who rushed toward him would have fallen to the floor. The stranger was carried into a room in the rear of the saloon. Ills eyes were closed and the breath came in painful gasps. While those in the saloon were working over the man some one ran around to the West Thirtieth police station and reported that a man had dropped dead in Lane's saloon. When a policeman reacted the place he found Waterlow still breathing, but before an ambulance could be summoned he died. The body was taken to the station house. There was nothing in the pockets which would lead to his identification. The police found on the body a pair of new kid gloves, a sewelled scarfpin, an enamelled Princeton College badge, a pearl-handled pocket knife enclosed in a leather case, a gold watchehain, a silver Columbian souvenir ring, and two tlekets for a religious meeting held at the Academy of Music on Sunday, Oct. 22.

A few hours after the body was removed to the station house it was identified by Edward M. Senior, an undertaker of 1,239 Broadway, as that of Waterlow. A telegram was sent to the dead man's father, who cailed at the station house and had the body removed to his home.

She Rushes Into Her Husband's Office and ROCHESTER, Nov. 15 .- John McGlauchlin has occupied the office 316 Powers building with Fred H. Baker, lawyer, for about six months past. He is a Scotchman, and has a very gentiemanly appearance and bearing. He came to this country at the time of the English brewery syndicate scheme, and has made his office in this city ever since. Mr. McGlauchlin is a graduate of Oxford University, and his affable ways have won him a host of friends in Rochester. Yesterday afternoon, soon after 5 o'clock, as Mr. McGlauchlin was closing his labors for the day, Mrs. McGlauchlin rushed into the office. Lawyer Baker and Mr. Mcinto the office. Lawyer Baker and Mr. Mc-Glauchlin's typewriter, Miss Belle Johnson, were present at the time. The infuriated wife rushed at the young girl and beat and shoked her. Expostulations on the part of the nusband and Lawyer Baker were without avail. In the mélée chairs were overturned and broken and books and papers scattered about. "You are a villan, Mr. McGlauchlin," shout-ed his wife, "and you will be made to suffer. I have been a good and true wife to you, and you have wronged me. But I'll have no more of it. I'll fix this woman you have here and then I'll get a divorce from you."

CHARGED WITH SINKING THE NEVADA.

Engineer Schurg Arrested-It is Said He Received $1,500 of the Insurance Money. DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 15.-Col. T. J. Sheehan, leputy United States marshal of St. Paul. yesterday at Two Harbors, assisted by Deputy United States Marshal C. E. Stanley of Chicago, arrested John A. Schurg on the steamship Marina, of which Schurg was engineer. Schurg is charged with wilfully casting away the steamship Nevada by opening her sea cock and pumping her full of water-when he was her engineer on Nov. 14. 1889. He was indicted last month by the Grand Jury in Chicago. The owners of the Nevada got $40,000 insurance money, and Schurg is said to have received $1,500 for the job. He was brought here last evening and taken before United States Commissioner Carey and held until today awaiting the arrival of United States District Attorney Hay. JAMES E. LITTLE BURIED.

A WILL MADE IN 1884 LEAVES ALI BUT $500 TO JINET WEIR.

James E. Little Won't Tell When They Were Married-She Was Divorced Six Years Ago from Fred Welr of Cincinnat After delays which promised trouble for several people, the body of James E. Little, who died Saturday night under circumstances which were apparently deemed by his nephew to be suspicious, was buried yesterday after noon in Rural Cometery at Huntington, L. L. The last attempt by Leon M. Little to secure the body was made Tuesday evening at the railroad station at Long Island City. Upon his statement that the Coroner of Queens county wanted the body, the railroad employees removed it from the baggage car. It was placed back again when the widow, Mrs. Janet Little, showed a burial permit issued by the New York Board of Health, and there were no more delays until the train reached Huntington. The body was then taken to the vault at the cemetery for the night. The funeral had been abandoned for that day when it was learned that the body had been held in New York.

Leon Little, his wife, and son were at Huntington until 4 P. M. yesterday, when they went to New York by boat. During the morning Leon walked about town abusing Mrs. Janet Little until he was told by several citizens to stop. It was hinted that a meeting of White Caps might be called to consider his case. No funeral services attended the burial of Capt. Little save the Masonic burial rites, conducted by Jephtha Lodge, 493. The Rev. Mr. Putnam of the Second Presbyterian Church, as chaplain of the lodge, read the service.

Besides the Masons and a few old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Little and Benjamin Finley, father-in-law of Capt, Little, were present Mrs. Janet Little, as she explained later, was absent because of illness. The experience in New York on Tuesday had unsettled her nerves. Leon Little visited Judge Thomas Young's office during the day, and the report became current that he had retained the lawyer to secure a removal of the body and have the case investigated by the authorities of Suffolk county. Judge Young denied this, and said that Little had merely called to ask about the will left by his uncle.

This will, now in the possession of the widow's lawyer, Charles R. Street of Huntington, was made in 1884, and leaves all of the testator's property to Janet Weir, except a legacy of $500 for his nophew, Leon M. Little. It would indicate that he was unmarried at that time, although Mrs. Little said Tuesday that they had been married ten or twelve years. This is the only will known.

It was given out by the nephew on Tuesday that he would contest it, as well as use all efforts to have an autopsy made of the body. It is not probable that the body will be disturbed on the rather flimsy evidence of the nephew's statement that his uncle believed that he had been poisoned.

Mrs. Janet Little was seen last evening at her home, near Huntington harbor. She was quite as animated and talkative as before, and was ready to discuss all features of the case except the will and her marriage to Capt. Little.

was ready to discuss all features of the case except the will and her marriage to Capt. Little.

A despatch from Cincinnati was shown to her in which Fred Weir. a wealthy manufacturer, said he had been married, but got a divorce six or seven years ago from Judge Kumler of Cincinnati. He had understood that his wife was living in New York and had married a Capt. Little.

Mrs. Little said: "That statement is true. Mrs. Weir is one of the best-known men in Ohio. We were married and lived together several years. We separated because we could not get along together. I know nothing against him. It was simply a case of incompatibility."

Mrs. Little was then asked where her marriage with Capt. Little took place.

"In New York State," she said.

"When?"

"How ridiculous to ask such a queston! We were married, of course."

"How windelicate to ask that!"

Mrs. Little refused to discuss the marriage further. She chose rather to nitack the nephew. Leon, whom she described as a schemer, interested only in getting possession of the pronerty.

Mrs. Little said she would continue to live at her Huntington harbor home with her father and mother. It is a handsome place. The house stands well back in a plot of fifty acres, fronting on the harbor, and is richly furnished. The people at Huntington had said Mrs. Little was pupular with all classes. The so-cret of this popularity, Mrs. Little explained, was her willingness to "talk horse" with the men and give to the poor.

She did not go out often in the more select circles of Huntington society, but was well liked. The people not only refuse to believe any rumors that she caused her husband's death, but are very angry at the nephew who started these stories.

Coroner Mckenna of this city sent a subpana yesterilay to Dr. P. G. Becker of 303 Wast Ninsteenth street, who attended Capt. Little. The doctor, who has no suspice to the proper of the pro Pona yesteriay to Dr. F. G. Decker of the Wast Ninescenth street, who attended Capt. Little. The doctor, who has no suspicion that death resulted from other than natural causes, made a statement to that effect to the Coroner, and visited the District Attorney's office, where the opinion was given out that the case was not one of poisoning. A summons was also issued for Leon M. Little, who made a complaint at the District Attorney's office.

Little's wife, Dr. Schofield, who assisted in the consultation, and other witnesses will be summoned, and if the evidence is sufficient, according to District Attorney Nicoli, the body will be exhumed and an autopsy will be made.

A EURGLAR IN THE SHOP CELLAR. Although Small, He Downs the Shopkecper -Collared by a Cop.

Moses Moyer, a dry goods dealer at 226 Bushwick avenue, Williamsburgh, before closing his shop at 0:30 o'clock last night, went into the cellar to shut some windows. He had a candle with him. In the cellar he was confronted by an under-sized man who tried to get past him to go up stairs. When Meyer ried to stop him the small man knocked Meyer down, and then ran un to the street. Meyer pursued him, and shouted "Stop thief?" Policeman Casey of the Starg street slatten joined in the chase and arrested the little man after a run of two blocks.

At the station house the prisoner gave his name as John Smith, his age as 45, and said he lived in New Jersey. In his pockets were two jimmles and a two-pound slungshot. He had also a receipt with the name Constantine Storger, 24 Boston street, Newark, upon it. He was held on a charge of attempted burgiary.

Superintendent Soteldo's Trint Charles A. Sotelde, Superintendent of Supplies for the Fire Department, was on trial resterday before the Fire Commissioners accused by Commissioner Gray of paring too much for oil bought for the department. Six weeks ago Soteldo made a requisition on Commissioner Gray for money for kerosene oil. the price quoted being 10 cents a gallon. Commissioner Gray thought it too high, and, upon investigation, found that he could buy the oil for 6 cents a gallon. Then he preferred the charge.

County Clerk Purroy and Police Justice Grady appeared as counsel for Soteldo, He denied Commissioner Gray's charges, and his counsel furnished quotations from different firms, saying that they could not furnish oil at less than ten cents a gallon. Mr. Furroy remarked that formerly the Commissioners tried to help the employees of the department, now they tried to trap them. He thought that helper they got through they might have to indict a Commissioner.

The decision of the Commissioners was reserved. the price quoted being 10 cents a gallon.

Farm Hand Davidson then Cut His Own

Throat with a Razor. ALLIANCE, Ohio, Nov. 15,-On the west corporation line of Alliance is the farm of C. C. Baugh, who also has a coal mine. In his employ was Curt Davidson, a surly, eccentric man of 40 years. Baugh would have long ago discharged him, but feared he would burn his buildings. Last Friday Mr. and Mrs. Baugh went to Fennsylvania to visit friends for sweek or so, leaving Davidson with the rest of the family, consisting of their daughter. Birdle, aged 20, two sons, Norman and Garfield, aged 17 and 14 respectively, and their unde, Thomas Strawn Last night at 10 o'clock Davidson had not come in. Strawn and the boys retired, leaving Eirdle to lock the house after Davidson came in. The girl remarked that she wished they were rid of him. This morning her dead hody was found lying on the kitchen floor. Half a mile away Davidson was found lying outside F. Scranton's barn with his threat cut and a bloody razor by his side. He was still alive.

Circumstances told the story of the tragedy. Davidson had come home, found the girl alone, and, when she went to lock the kitchen door, followed her, struck her three times in the head with a poker and then cat her throat. With his bloody hands he locked the door leading to the other part of the bouse, then carried his victim to the barn and fled. Realizing that he would be cagaired, he had attempted suicide.

Later in the day, contrary to all expectations, Davidson revived, and it is now believed he will recover. Great indignation prevails and an effort is being made to organize a lynching party to hang him. man of 40 years. Baugh would have long ago
